NEW JERSEY STATE POLICE, WOODBINE BARRACKS, HONORED AT CAPE COUNSELING AWARDS LUNCHEON

Woodbine—Mayor William Pikolycky is pleased to announce that Cape Counseling Services, at their Fifth Annual Awards Luncheon on May 17 honored State Police officers of the Woodbine barracks.

Lieutenant Robert Watkins was honored for his extraordinary leadership in creating and maintaining an atmosphere of cooperation, collaboration, and support with his staff in its efforts to provide a safe and healing environment for the children's residential home in Woodbine who are challenged with severe, menacing and chronic behavioral health issues. He was named an Honorary Chief Executive Officer.

Troopers Christian Eskridge, Mark Addotta, and Barry Saul were honored for individually and collectively demonstrated their support and concern for the staff and the clients of the Woodbine children's residential care facility. Without their efforts and their over and above the line of duty attitude the residence would be rendered less of a safe and nurturing environment for all. They were all named Honorary Counselors.

Also honored as Honorary Counselors at the luncheon were Karen Burke, Director of the Learning Recovery Center of Wildwood; Ginny and Cindy Fineberg for their six years of volunteering at Camp Dream Catcher, a summer camp for HIV/AIDS affected children; and Jerry Boyle, Exalted Ruler, Elks Lodge 1896, North Wildwood, who received this honor for all members of Elks Lodge 1896 for their generosity and support in providing funding for activities that enhance the therapeutic work done with both children and adults in Cape Counseling's programs of recovery.

"I would like to thank the employees of Rainbow of Hope who extended the invitation for me to attend this important recognition ceremony. It was good to see these Woodbine people at this event," noted Mayor Pikolycky.
