Woodbine—Mayor William Pikolycky is pleased to announce the Cape May County Library will present an Herb Dish Garden demonstration at the Woodbine Branch of the Cape May County library, 800 Monroe Street, Woodbine, on Tuesday, May 17, from 5 to 6 p.m.

The presenter will be Joseph Alvarez, who regularly gives gardening and horticultural programs at various Cape May County library locations, including Woodbine where he continues to be a much-sought after speaker.

Joe has a Bachelor of Science Degree in Biology/Environmental Science, a founding member of the Cape May County Beach Plum Association, and is active in many county and agricultural programs in South Jersey.

Herbs have and always will play a vital role in man's existence. Herbs have been used in many aspects of everyday living from preservation to homespun remedies to fabric dyes. Joe Alvarez will discuss the history, practical use of, and gardening of herbs and also help participants decide which herbs would be best for your home and guide you through the planting process..

"I urge everyone to join us in participating in this informative session and to take advantage of Joe's vast knowledge on the topic just in time to get your spring planting underway," added Mayor Pikolycky. "Joe has been giving the Borough a hand with the planning of our Open Space Park and we thank the library for again bringing him to our branch for this seasonally appropriate demonstration."

For more information, call the library branch at 861-2501 or the Adult Programming Department at the Main Library 463-6386.
